

ATTORNEY GENERAL OF TEXAS
GREG ABBOTT

September 19, 2007

Ms. Claire Yancey
Assistant District Attorney
Denton County
P.O. Box 2850
Denton, Texas 76202

OR2007-12188

Dear Ms. Yancey:

You ask whether certain information is subject to required public disclosure under the Public Information Act (the "Act"), chapter 552 of the Government Code. Your request was assigned ID# 289668.

Denton County (the "county") received a request for "all documents or records of any type regarding access to any Denton County building by [a named individual]". You claim that the requested information is excepted from disclosure under section 552.101 of the Government Code.¹ We have considered the exception you claim and reviewed the submitted information.

Section 552.101 of the Government Code excepts from disclosure "information considered to be confidential by law, either constitutional, statutory, or by judicial decision," including information that is encompassed by the common-law right to privacy. See Indus. Found. v. Tex. Indus. Accident Bd., 540 S.W.2d 668 (Tex. 1976). Information is protected from disclosure under the common-law right to privacy if (1) it contains highly intimate or embarrassing facts, the release of which would be highly objectionable to a reasonable person, and (2) it is not of legitimate concern to the public. See id. at 685. The type of information considered intimate and embarrassing by the Texas Supreme Court in Industrial ¹Although you raise sections 552.103, 552.107, 552.108, and 552.111 of the Government Code, you have provided no arguments explaining how these exceptions are applicable to the submitted information. Therefore, we presume you no longer assert these exceptions to disclosure. Gov't Code § 552.301, .302.

Foundation included information relating to sexual assault, pregnancy, mental or physical abuse in the workplace, illegitimate children, psychiatric treatment of mental disorders, attempted suicide, and injuries to sexual organs. Id. at 683. Information may also be withheld under section 552.101 in conjunction with common-law privacy upon a showing of “special circumstances.” See Open Records Decision No. 169 (1977). This office considers “special circumstances” to refer to a very narrow set of situations in which the release of information would likely cause someone to face “an imminent threat of physical danger.” Id. at 6. Such “special circumstances” do not include “a generalized and speculative fear of harassment or retribution.” Id. This office further noted that the initial determination of the existence of an imminent threat of harm should be made by the governmental body to which a request for disclosure is directed, and this office will determine whether a governmental body has demonstrated the existence of “special circumstances” on a case-by-case basis. Id. at 7.

In this instance, you argue that the submitted information must be withheld from disclosure under section 552.101 in conjunction with the “special circumstances” aspect of common-law privacy. See ORD No. 169. Upon review, however, we find that you have failed to demonstrate that release of the information at issue would likely cause someone to face “an imminent threat of physical danger.” Therefore, the information may not be withheld under section 552.101 in conjunction with the “special circumstances” aspect of common-law privacy. As you claim no other exceptions to disclosure, the submitted information must be released to the requestor.

This letter ruling is limited to the particular records at issue in this request and limited to the facts as presented to us; therefore, this ruling must not be relied upon as a previous determination regarding any other records or any other circumstances.

This ruling triggers important deadlines regarding the rights and responsibilities of the governmental body and of the requestor. For example, governmental bodies are prohibited from asking the attorney general to reconsider this ruling. Gov’t Code § 552.301(f). If the governmental body wants to challenge this ruling, the governmental body must appeal by filing suit in Travis County within 30 calendar days. Id. § 552.324(b). In order to get the full benefit of such an appeal, the governmental body must file suit within 10 calendar days. Id. § 552.353(b)(3), (c). If the governmental body does not appeal this ruling and the governmental body does not comply with it, then both the requestor and the attorney general have the right to file suit against the governmental body to enforce this ruling. Id. § 552.321(a).

If this ruling requires the governmental body to release all or part of the requested information, the governmental body is responsible for taking the next step. Based on the statute, the attorney general expects that, upon receiving this ruling, the governmental body will either release the public records promptly pursuant to section 552.221(a) of the Government Code or file a lawsuit challenging this ruling pursuant to section 552.324 of the Government Code. If the governmental body fails to do one of these things, then the requestor should report that failure to the attorney general's Open Government Hotline, toll free, at (877) 673-6839. The requestor may also file a complaint with the district or county attorney. Id. § 552.3215(e).

If this ruling requires or permits the governmental body to withhold all or some of the requested information, the requestor can appeal that decision by suing the governmental body. Id. § 552.321(a); Texas Dep't of Pub. Safety v. Gilbreath, 842 S.W.2d 408, 411 (Tex. App.—Austin 1992, no writ).

Please remember that under the Act the release of information triggers certain procedures for costs and charges to the requestor. If records are released in compliance with this ruling, be sure that all charges for the information are at or below the legal amounts. Questions or complaints about over-charging must be directed to Hadassah Schloss at the Office of the Attorney General at (512) 475-2497.

If the governmental body, the requestor, or any other person has questions or comments about this ruling, they may contact our office. Although there is no statutory deadline for contacting us, the attorney general prefers to receive any comments within 10 calendar days of the date of this ruling.

Sincerely,

Paige Savoie
